

magma13 Water

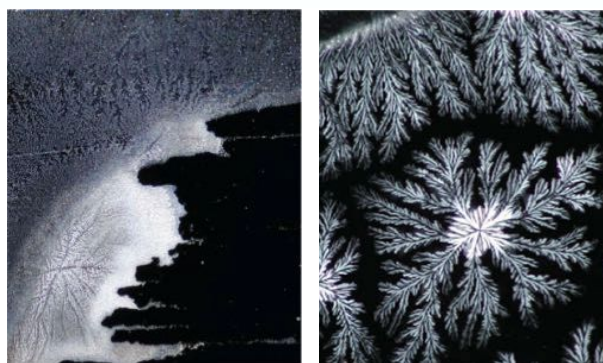

Water is essential to life. Due to modern water delivery processes, most water we come in contact with is depleted, has no vitality and has lost its natural structure. With magma13 Water technology, an ideal crystallization and structure of water re-emerges to provide water in its more optimal natural state - energized, crystalline, and coherent.

magma13 Water technology helps energize water molecules into a coherent state. This process creates an ideal micro-vibration within the water, similar to how we find water deep in nature. Through this increased vitality, water becomes more biocompatible and nourishing for us.

SOLS, with our partner Swiss laboratory LifevisionLab, have been pioneers in the study of water crystallization since 1998. Through a specific protocol for water crystallization, the coherence of water structures can be made visible through microscopic analysis, evidenced through dramatic water fractalization.

Water Comes Alive

Seeing the quality of water makes all the difference...

Above are crystallization images of drinking water from Zürich, Switzerland. Matter can form in infinite ways, revealing to the eye what life energy is inside the water. On the left is pure drinking water, and on the right is the same pure drinking water treated with magma13 Water technologies.

The “unenergized” water while physically very pure, its life energy is weak and its inertia keeps the whole drop uncrystallized. That is the lack of definition and beauty in the sedimented minerals along with the black spot / holes you see in the image. On the right you see the same water, but after harmonization with magma13 Water technology, now it is permeated with an ideal energy structure or order. Notice the perfect natural shapes, and ideal “plant-like” sedimentations of minerals as a natural order in nature.

If you had to choose a glass filled with water from the left image or the right image, which would you choose? Which would you want to fill the 70% plus of your body that is made of water?

For over 25 years, SOLS and our partners have been working on studying water energy and potentiality. Water is alive, and in a natural state of energy has a specific crystallographic signature. Even though water can be different in its minerals, salts and other solutes, there is a unique universal appearance to natural spring water when it crystallizes.

Crystalline pictures of foods and water lead to a fundamental change in the way we perceive these items. Through specific research protocols, we are able to see the presence and action of often unseen life energies in water. Through this we see the ‘order forces’ or life energies, that create crystalline pictures after a unique extraction methodology developed in Switzerland. These are the inherent invisible paramagnetic forces active within water that become manifest as clearly visible clusters and crystal formations which are microscopic in size. Human beings have the inherent capacity to recognize and remember order, inherent organization and beauty.

Magma13 Water Technology

magma13 Water technology is a Natural Ambient Energy polarizer which is an energetic module composed of multilayer absorption cells that holds magma13. The module is composed of an anodized aluminum which creates a powerful harmonizing and energizing effect for the water passing past it. The core power of the water energization process comes from magma13 and its energizing effect transferred from the internal chamber of the activator to the water running pipe or tube. magma13 is a proprietary formula developed by SOLS.

magma13 Water module is able to successfully treat the water which passes past it, with a significant change to its energy field over time, thanks to its unique design and engineering.

How magma13 Water Works

In nature water flows in rivers and oceans. Over long periods of time, the water is exposed to energization from sunlight, active paramagnetic natural resources as well as dynamization from concussion and energy exchange oxygenation with stones, rocks and plants. This entire process continually energizes, vitalizes and purifies the water.

magma13 Water module is designed to replicate the codes of what water is like in this ideal energy state.

Similar to what happens in nature when water runs near different qualities of rocks, minerals and stones, magma13 Water unit creates a subtle paramagnetic effect in the area of the water. Using the speed of the water running through the pipe or tube, magma13 macromolecule produces a range of nano vibrations that energize the pipes, and activates almost instantly the water. This creates a coherence in the water molecules passing by to allow the minerals in the water to reorganize their vitality, instantly changing the quality and crystallization of the water.

The technology specifically works to energize water and does not impact any existing filtration or decalcification processes already in place in the environment on the contrary improves them.

magma13 Water technology is available in several sizes, from small portable units to large whole house solutions, which have additional energetical effects for the entire house. SOLS also works with commercial food and beverage producers, to enhance the energization of the water used in production.

Benefits of Drinking Energized Water

People report water treated with magma13 Water Module:

- Feels alive
- Makes water more digestible and easier to drink
- More nourishing for animals and plants
- Feels more refreshing
- Tastes better

magma13 Water: Technical Data and Care Information

magma13 Water module is an easily portable polarizer enhancer of Natural Ambient Energy.

The product, requires no power or batteries and will sustain its energetic state over long periods of time.

Water modules will optimally perform for 7-10 years, and then depending on environment may see decreasing performance. For commercial applications, depending on volume of water used, modules can be replaced or recharged to ensure maximum strength of energization.

The material is completely encapsulated in a pure aluminum cell in a natural resin bath with excellent stability, mechanical strength and heat dissipation characteristics. The encapsulation also makes the module free from dust and moisture. magma13 Water module is 100% safe and natural, and does not interfere with any electromagnetic or technological appliance or device, and does not produce any electromagnetic radiation or wi-fi signal.

Cleaning is simple with a damp cloth, and mild natural detergent. Neoprene straps (with Water 15 module) can be machine washed.
